

History of Sacred Frankincense

Sacred Frankincense is the most ancient and praised of all Frankincense species. Almost two thousand years ago, Pliny the Elder, who wrote the first encyclopedic work - Naturalis Historia, said in this book that Frankincense was harvested only in the Dhofar region of Oman, and that it was the Minoans who originated the trade of Frankincense.

From the Bible we know that Frankincense was used to enhance meditation, elevate spiritual consciousness, and as a perfume. The King of all Essential Oils, as the Sacred Frankincense is called, was also used to anoint the newborn sons of kings and priests, which may be the reason it was brought as a gift to the baby Jesus.

Frankincense Fighting Cancer

In recent years Scientists have observed that there are some elements within the frankincense resin which stop cancer from spreading, and induce cancerous cells to close themselves down.

Immunologist Mahmoud Suhail, Scientific Advisor at Dhofar Frankincense Research Plant, who is the owner of the JOB's S42 Research Laboratory in Salalah - Oman, is quoted:

"Cancer starts when the DNA code within the cell's nucleus becomes corrupted. It seems frankincense has a re-set function. It can tell the cell what the right DNA code should be. Frankincense separates the 'brain' of the cancerous cell - the nucleus - from the 'body' - the cytoplasm, and closes down the nucleus to stop it from reproducing corrupted DNA codes."

George Matys
Owner of Omaneum Aroma

"Since my teenage years I have always had a fascination with history, archaeology, religions and travel. For the last ten years I've travelled frequently to southern Oman - the ancient Land of Frankincense, searching for traces of lost civilizations. It was there where I developed an interest in Frankincense. During my visit in the spring of 2014, I met Dr. Suhail, who in collaboration with Oklahoma Medical Science University is conducting Frankincense research, evaluating frankincense impact on normal and cancerous human cells. Dr. Suhail showed me his research progress and taught me the methods of Frankincense distillation. Inspired by his research, I've decided to open my own distillery - the first Sacred Frankincense distillery in Canada."
